She stated that she was not the resident manager during the period that EAGLEBURGER and his wife resided there, and that she had never known him or his wife. b6 b7C

Mrs. [REDACTED] Resident Manager of Letterman House, 2030 F Street, N.W., advised that she was the resident manager at the Monroe House during the time that EAGLEBURGER and his wife resided in Apartment 501. She stated that she had become the first manager of the Monroe House when it opened in 1965, and recalled that Miss MARLENE HEINEMANN, the present wife of LAURENCE EAGLEBURGER was one of the early tenants, and continued to reside in Apartment 501 after her marriage to EAGLEBURGER, they both staying on there after the marriage.

She stated, however, that other than that event, they kept very much to themselves, and appeared to be reserved in their associations. She knew of no association by them with any of the other tenants in the building, pointing out that it was not at all unusual for tenants residing there in the building, even on the same floor, not to know each other at all. b6 b7C

She could not recall either of them stopping by the office for any reason, and so saw very little of them. She stated that they impressed her as people of high character and good reputation, and of unquestioned loyalty to the United States. She was of the opinion that both EAGLEBURGER and his wife were the type of people who would never be suspected of being affiliated with subversive or unpatriotic groups.

She stated that once mail addressed to them was misdirected to her apartment, and she had seen to it that it was redirected to them. She said that she could furnish no additional information concerning EAGLEBURGER or his wife.

REFERENCES

[redacted] Attorney, Covington and Burlington Law Firm, 6th Floor, Union Trust Building, 15th and H Streets, N.W., who was given as a reference by LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER. was interviewed on March 27, 1969, by SA [redacted]

Mr. [redacted] advised that he first met "LARRY" (LAWRENCE) EAGLEBURGER in March, 1966. Mr. [redacted] explained that at that time he had returned temporarily for duty with the United States Department of State to handle United States affairs in France in connection with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) after the "apostasy" of General CHARLES DE GAULLE, President of the Fifth Republic of France. Mr. [redacted] recalled that following DE GAULLE's announcement in 1966 of nearly total French withdrawal from the military affairs of NATO, the Council moved its headquarters from Paris to Evere, near Brussels, Belgium. Mr. [redacted] having been charged by the United States Secretary of State, DEAN RUSK, to supervise the winding up of United States NATO affairs in France, requested that the "best man" in the Central Secretariat of the State Department be assigned to him. The Central Secretariat, a division of the State Department, had been set up by Mr. [redacted] to service the Secretary and Under-Secretaries of State by furnishing the necessary research information to assist in final decision making. As a result of his request for the most capable man in the Central Secretariat, he was introduced to EAGLEBURGER.

Mr. [redacted] stated that thereafter EAGLEBURGER worked for him for five months, which was the time required by [redacted] to handle all of the political aspects of removing United States NATO interests from France. Mr. [redacted] stated that EAGLEBURGER is a "very smart man," and that he became very attached to him. He said that he had great respect and regard for EAGLEBURGER, describing him as a very competent man, adding that EAGLEBURGER did a "marvelous job" for him.

Mr. [ ] stated that EAGLEBURGER is a man of extremely high character, of "sterling" reputation, and of "unquestioned" loyalty. He added that his associations are "unimpeachable." Mr. [ ] was certain that EAGLEBURGER had never been affiliated with subversive or unpatriotic groups, and that he completely subscribes to the democratic processes of the United States Government.

Mr. [ ] also had occasion to meet EAGLEBURGER's wife, MARLENE EAGLEBURGER. He stated that when he first met EAGLEBURGER in March, 1966, the latter was engaged to Miss MARLENE HEINEMANN, a Foreign Service Secretary, who later became EAGLEBURGER's wife. [ ] said that he was pleased that at that time, EAGLEBURGER was able to "pre-empt" her into working at the State Department on Sundays, to assist them with their paper work during the dissolution of United States NATO interests in France.

Mr. [ ] stated that what he had said with regards to LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER's character, reputation, loyalty, and associations also held true for his wife. He was equally certain that MARLENE EAGLEBURGER had never been affiliated with a subversive or unpatriotic group. Mr. [ ] went on to state that he liked EAGLEBURGER and his wife very much, and that now he hoped to be able to meet with them more often socially as he had learned that the EAGLEBURGERS plan to return to the Washington, D.C., area to live.

Mr. [ ] stated that he was aware of a previous marriage by LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER, but said that he had never met EAGLEBURGER's first wife, and knew none of the circumstances surrounding the divorce.

Mr. [ ] stated that he had never met any of the other members of the EAGLEBURGER family, but stated it was his understanding that they were all conservative people who were highly regarded in the community where they resided in the State of Wisconsin.

On April 2, 1969, [redacted] Consultant, United States Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, advised SA [redacted] he has known the appointee professionally and as a personal friend since 1961. They served together in Language Training at the Foreign Service Institute, Department of State and were co-workers in Belgrade during the period 1962 - 1964 frequently traveling together. He knew the appointee's first spouse and was of the opinion the separation was caused because they both did not get along together and it was by mutual agreement and it was no reflection on the appointee or his ex-spouse. He also knows the appointee's present spouse but does not know the other members of the appointee's family. He had heard the appointee's mother died last week and knew the appointee's father has been deceased for some time. The following investigation at the Department of State was conducted by SA [REDACTED]

VINCENT BAKER, Director, Office of Disarmament and Arms Control, Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs, advised that he has known LAWRENCE S. EAGLEBURGER socially and professionally since the mid 1960's as a co-worker at the Department of State. They served together in Brussels, Belgium from November, 1969 to July, 1971 and worked very closely together during this period. They have continued to have occasional contacts since 1971 in Washington, D. C. BAKER reported that he has no question concerning appointee's loyalty to his country, adding that he is a dedicated and devoted citizen of the United States. He indicated that appointee's character, morals, habits, reputation and associations are exemplary and he recommended EAGLEBURGER for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government. BAKER mentioned that the appointee does not drink to excess, conducts himself properly at all times and is devoted to his wife. He described EAGLEBURGER as an intelligent and articulate individual who speaks and writes very well and is very good at long-range planning. BAKER mentioned that he saw references to an illness of EAGLEBURGER in newspapers or magazines in 1969 at about the time he was assigned to Brussels, but he has no personal knowledge of the details of this matter. He indicated that he could furnish no information concerning the nature of appointee's illness. BAKER added that he saw EAGLEBURGER during several weeks of briefings at the Department of State in Washington, D. C., probably during August, 1969 prior to his departure for Brussels, and he certainly noticed no signs of any illness on the part of EAGLEBURGER. He indicated that the appointee did not appear to be nervous or under any strain at that time. BAKER remarked that it is his impression that the newspaper articles he saw in 1969 implied that EAGLEBURGER had been exhausted by overwork while assigned to the National Security Council, but he could furnish no further information concerning this matter.

On April 25, 1973, Mr. RAYMOND L. GARTHOFF, Deputy Director, Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs advised that he first met EAGLEBURGER briefly in 1969 when appointee was assigned to the National Security Council. They then worked together closely in Brussels, Belgium from September, 1969 to September, 1970 and knew each other socially as well. They have had occasional contacts during the past year in Washington, D. C. GARTHOFF stated that he considers the appointee to be a loyal United States citizen who is devoted to United States interests. He indicated that appointee's character, morals, reputation and associations are of the highest type and he recommended EAGLEBURGER for a government position of trust. GARTHOFF commented that he has the highest respect for the appointee, both personally and professionally, and added that he is respected by the people he works with.

On April 26, 1973, Mr. RONALD I. SPIERS, Director, Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs, advised that he has known the appointee off and on, primarily professionally, since about 1965 when EAGLEBURGER was assigned to the Executive Secretariat of the Department of Defense. SPIERS stated that he has no doubts regarding appointee's loyalty to the United States and added that his character, integrity, habits, and reputation are very good, to the best of his knowledge. He described EAGLEBURGER as a very bright, intelligent, energetic and active individual who "burns himself out" as a result of his dedication to his work. SPIERS mentioned that it is his understanding that EAGLEBURGER "had a case of exhaustion in 1969 while working at the National Security Council" but he emphasized that he (SPIERS) was not then in Washington, D. C. and he has no knowledge of the details of this matter. He commented that appointee's biggest problem is an inability to pace himself. SPIERS explained that EAGLEBURGER is the sort of person who works too hard and does too much himself. He needs to learn to delegate work to others, rather than to try to do everything himself. SPIERS remarked that the appointee has seemed somewhat nervous and tense in his recent contacts with SPIERS and needs to learn to relax. He emphasized that the appointee is not a security risk and he recommended EAGLEBURGER for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government. SPIERS added that he would have brought the appointee into a position on his own staff, if he had not decided to take the position offered to him at the National Security Council.

On April 26, 1973, Mr. [ ] Communications Specialist, Communications Programs Networks, Office of Communications, advised that he had known the appointee in an official capacity from September, 1969 to July, 1971 at Brussels, Belgium as a co-worker at the United States Mission to NATO. [ ] stated that he has no question concerning appointee's loyalty to his country and added that his character and reputation are of the highest type. He recommended EAGLEBURGER for a clearance for government employment, commenting that he is a stable, mature, reliable, sympathetic and dependable person who was highly regarded by his colleagues. [ ] mentioned that he knows of no health problems which the appointee might have had. b6

On April 27, 1973, Mr. [ ] Country Officer for Romania and Albania, Office of Eastern European Affairs, Bureau of European Affairs advised that he had known EAGLEBURGER socially and officially as a co-worker in Brussels, Belgium from September, 1969 to August, 1970. He has seen the appointee casually once or twice since that time. [ ] reported that the appointee is a loyal United States citizen who is devoted to his country. He indicated that appointee's character, integrity, reputation and associations are above reproach, to the best of his knowledge, and he recommended EAGLEBURGER for a government position of trust. He mentioned that appointee is an energetic, aggressive, hard-working individual with a good sense of policy. He is a good manager and administrator and a good man to work for and with. [ ] reported that the appointee has no serious health problems that he knows of, although there were press reports b6 which [ ] saw at the time of his assignment to Brussels in 1969 that he had had some sort of nervous breakdown while assigned to the National Security Council. He emphasized that he saw no evidence of any health problem on the part of EAGLEBURGER in Brussels. He added that the appointee was respected and liked by his colleagues in Brussels.

On April 27, 1973, Mr. [ ], Officer-in-Charge of United Nations Political and Security Affairs, Office of United Nations Political Affairs, Bureau of International Organization Affairs advised that he had known EAGLEBURGER primarily professionally from September, 1969 to June, 1971 as a co-worker in Brussels, Belgium. He added that he had also known the appointee casually during 1962 - 1963 in Yugoslavia where EAGLEBURGER served in Belgrade and [ ] served in Sarajevo. [ ] described the appointee as a dedicated and patriotic citizen of the United States and a man of excellent character, reputation, and associations. He recommended EAGLEBURGER "without any hesitation" for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government, commenting that he is a mature, stable, well-balanced, competent and dependable officer who did a really superb job in Brussels.

[ ] mentioned that the appointee sometimes used a cane while walking off and on for periods of time while assigned to Brussels, perhaps for some back or leg problem. He could furnish no specific information concerning this matter. He indicated that there were reports in the Belgian press in 1969 when EAGLEBURGER was assigned to Brussels that he had resigned from his National Security Council job due to exhaustion.

[ ] emphasized that there was no sign of any such problem while EAGLEBURGER was serving in Brussels.

On April 25, 1973, Mr. RALPH J. MC GUIRE, Director, Office of NATO and Atlantic Political-Military Affairs, Bureau of European Affairs advised that he had known EAGLEBURGER casually for some years and has known him quite well personally and professionally for the past five years during appointee's assignments to the National Security Council, Brussels, Belgium and the Department of Defense. They have worked closely together during the past five years. MC GUIRE stated that EAGLEBURGER is a dedicated and devoted United States citizen and a man of very good character, reputation and associations. He recommended the appointee for a position of trust and confidence with the government, commenting that he is an able, energetic, intelligent and reliable officer who is highly regarded by his colleagues. MC GUIRE mentioned that the appointee is happily married and his wife is a very fine person. He remarked that it is his recollection that EAGLEBURGER was ill for three or four weeks in 1969 while assigned to the NSC but he is not aware of the detail of this matter and can furnish no information concerning it.

On April 25, 1973, Mr. EDWARD J. STREATOR, Deputy Director, Office of NATO and Atlantic Political-Military Affairs advised that he has known EAGLEBURGER professionally and socially since about 1965 when they worked together at the Department of State in Washington, D. C. for a year or so. They have had occasional contacts ever since that time and STREATOR saw EAGLEBURGER regularly in Brussels, Belgium during 1969 - 1971 and at the Department of Defense since 1971. He reported that EAGLEBURGER is a man of great intellectual scope and depth who is unquestionably loyal to his country. He added that appointee's character, integrity, reputation and associations are above reproach and he recommended EAGLEBURGER for a government position of trust. STREATOR mentioned that the appointee has a keen wit and a good sense of humor and is an amiable and cheerful man who inspires confidence. His abilities and capacities are such that he is a distinct asset to this government and "we need more people like him in government." STREATOR remarked that in 1969 he had heard or read in the newspapers that EAGLEBURGER had been ill while working at the National Security Council, but he could furnish no details concerning this matter. He commented that whatever the illness was, it could not have been a lengthy illness because EAGLEBURGER went to Brussels, Belgium on an assignment in the late summer or early fall of 1969.

On April 25, 1973, Mr. [ ] Deputy Assistant Secretary for European Affairs, Department of State, advised SA [ ] that he has known LAWRENCE S. The files of the Office of Security (SY), Department of State, reviewed by SA [redacted] on April 27, 1973, disclose the additional information that on July 17, 1969 the U. S. Mission to North American Treaty Organization (NATO) cabled SY for a statement of the appointee's security clearance. On the same date, SY replied by cable that EAGLEBURGER then held Top Secret, Cosmic Top Secret, "Q" and CENTO clearances. b6 b7C

These files also disclose that SY conducted routine updating background investigation concerning the appointee in July, 1969.

At that time several sources reported the appointee to be suffering from exhaustion, having worked long and arduous hours on his assignment at the White House. They also commented that although EAGLEBURGER did suffer from this exhaustion, his state of health did not interfere with the performance of his duties. Appointee left position on National Security Council on the advise of his personal physician, name unknown, since his illness was due to his long hours at the National Security Council. This period of exhaustion was considered only a temporary illness and not a permanent ailment. All sources commented that EAGLEBURGER was emotionally stable and mentally well balanced. ✓

The SY file does not show any termination of clearance concerning this individual; however, SY had advised that all its clearances terminate when the person's relationship with the Department of State terminates.

National Security Council (NSC)

The following investigation at NSC was conducted by SA [ ] on April 27, 1973.

Mrs. [ ] Administrative Officer, NSC, advised the appointee, LAWRENCE S: EAGLEBURGER, was detailed to NSC as a staff member from the Department of State for the period January, 1969, to September, 1969. She stated he went on sick leave approximately July 5, 1969, and did not return to the office and his detail was terminated when he was assigned to Brussels, Belgium, with a position with the Department of State.

The Security File, NSC, for the appointee, indicates EAGLEBURGER possessed a NSC top secret clearance for the period January 21, 1969, through September 22, 1969. This clearance was terminated when the appointee's detail at NSC was completed.

Mrs. [ ] advised she does not recall the full details of the appointee's physical problems, but stated she understood that he suffered from some type of physical fatigue which necessitated his going on extended sick leave. She described the appointee as a highly competent, capable, conscientious and intelligent person who possesses an excellent professional reputation. She has never heard or observed anything of an adverse nature concerning his personal life and habits. There is no question of his loyalty to the United States and Mrs. [ ] favorably recommends him for a position of trust and confidence. ✓

Mrs. [ ] advised the appointee is presently being considered for the position of Deputy Assistant to the President for Security Operations.

[ ] Staff Member, NSC, advised he first became acquainted with the appointee in March, 1969, when he, [ ] joined the staff of NSC, as a staff member. Since that date he has had continuing professional contact. [ ] has also had social contact with the appointee and considers him a personal friend. He described the appointee as a highly competent, capable, diligent and dedicated person. He enjoys an excellent professional and personal reputation. [ ] has met the appointee's wife who is a fine, decent person and advised EAGLEBURGER is completely devoted to her. He considers EAGLEBURGER a gentleman in every sense of the word. There is no question of the appointee's loyalty to the United States and [ ] highly recommends the appointee for a position of trust and confidence.

[ ] advised in July, 1969, the appointee was suffering from a severe case of flu but refused to go on sick leave because of the pressure of his position. At that time EAGLEBURGER was working extremely long hours. [ ] understands the appointee was also suffering from a respiratory ailment. In his opinion there was an accumulation of these physical defects which resulted in the appointee's suffering complete physical fatigue, which caused his collapse. He recalls EAGLEBURGER passed out at his desk and was forced to secure medical attention. To his knowledge the appointee never returned to his desk at NSC after this collapse in July, 1969. [ ] has observed the appointee off and on subsequent to July, 1969, and feels EAGLEBURGER has recovered completely. [ ] believes that Doctor KISSINGER, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs has the upmost confidence in the appointee or he would not have recommended his appointment as one of his deputies. ✓

Mrs. [ ] Administrative Assistant, NSC, advised she was acquainted with the appointee on a professional level on the two occasions EAGLEBURGER was detailed to the staff of NSC from the Department of State in 1966 and 1967 and subsequently for approximately seven months dating from January, 1969. She always found the appointee a very conscientious, reliable, responsible and level headed person. She has never heard or observed anything of an adverse nature concerning EAGLEBURGER's personal life and habits. Her comments are completely favorably concerning the appointee's character, associates, reputation and loyalty and favorably recommends him for a position of trust and confidence.

It is noted that HENRY KISSINGER, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs listed as a reference by the appointee was not interviewed due to the pressures of his position.

[ ] Supervisor, Mail Room, NSC advised that he knew the appointee on a professional bases for about six months at the NSC. He recalls that he was a friendly, pleasant individual who got along very well with a wide variety of co-workers at the NSC. Mr. [ ] does not recall any problems concerning the appointee and has never heard any unfavorable information concerning him. He has no hesitation in recommending him for a position of confidence and trust with the government.

✓ LUCIUS G. ROBERTSON, Chief, Information Liaison Section, NSC advised that he has known the appointee during EAGLEBURGER's two tours of duty at the NSC. He described him as an individual of impeccable character whose loyalty and dedication are beyond doubt. He had a friendly, admirable personality and he got along well with everyone. Mr. ROBERTSON recalled that during 1969, the appointee collapsed at his desk.

He believes that this was due not only to the long hours necessary for his job but also to the pressure of being Staff Assistant to several extremely capable and knowledgeable people. He believes that if the appointee returns to the NSC in the position as Deputy to Dr. KISSINGER, some of this pressure will be relieved and he will not be under the same degree of strain as he was in the past. Mr. ROBERTSON noted that he would recommend the appointee for a position of confidence and trust.

[redacted] Senior Staff member, NSC advised that he has known and worked with the appointee on both tours of duty at the NSC. There is absolutely no question concerning his loyalty to this country and he is obviously a capable professional. Mr. [redacted] has visited the appointee's home on several occasions in connection with official functions and has found him to be a responsible, discreet and personable individual. [redacted] has had little personal contact with the appointee since 1969, but speculated that since EAGLEBURGER chose to return to the NSC, he is obviously in good health. He would recommend him for a position of confidence and trust with the government. b6 b7C

The Security File, NSC, contained an article from the Washington Post dated Sunday, July 6, 1969, with the caption, "Kissinger Aide Quits for Health, Moves to NATO". In this article it is pointed out that EAGLEBURGER left his post with NSC at doctors orders and became a Political Counselor of the U.S. Mission to NATO. The article further pointed out that EAGLEBURGER had reported that after four years of twelve hour to fifteen hour work days, he was told by his doctor to take a rest and find some less strenuous job. The article concluded with a statement, "He is the first member of the Nixon White House Staff to leave because of exhaustion".

Additionally, appointee stated that in <sup>May</sup> April, 1969, he did suffer a physical exhaustion as manifested by attacks of dizziness and fainting in his office at the White House. He was taken to the White House dispensary for immediate first aid and check up and then to the Washington Hospital Center for 24 hours observation. A brain scan was run results of which were entirely normal. His Doctor subsequently diagnosed his problems as fatigue resulting from overwork, too much coffee and too many cigarettes. He does not recall and could not locate the name of his doctor but assumes it is in the Washington Hospital Center Medical Records on him and he readily furnished the enclosed release in order to review these medical records. The appointee's OPF for prior government service was not forwarded to his current employment office and is still maintained in the Office of Civilian Personnel, Department of State, since the appointee was on leave without pay before entering on duty at the Department of Defense.

On 4/26/73, SA [ ] reviewed the Security file pertaining to the appointee as maintained by the Security Office, Office of the Secretary of Defense, which file revealed the appointee was granted a Top Secret Security clearance on 6/23/71, to become effective on 8/1/71, based on his security clearance from his previous place of employment and this security clearance is still in effect. The file contained no additional pertinent information. b6 b7C

On 4/27/73, the appointee was interviewed in his office at the Pentagon and readily furnished a signed FD 406, Authority to Release Information, to be used in connection with securing his medical records at the Washington Hospital Center. He stated he was admitted there in April, 1969, for observation after suffering dizzy spells and fainting spells in his office at the White House. He was treated at the White House dispensary and then taken to the Washington Hospital Center for observation. A brain scan was run on him which was found to be normal and his doctor diagnosed his physical problem as fatigue and exhaustion caused by overwork and too much coffee and cigarettes. He stated that he then left the White House and went with NATO for two years and had no more trouble along these lines but that shortly after he did suffer this physical fatigue some "bitch" writing for Harper's Magazine who was trying to "clobber" HENRY KISSENGER stated that one of KISSENGER's assistants, namely the appointee, had suffered a nervous breakdown while working for KISSENGER. She cited this incident in order to illustrate her point that KISSENGER is "a son of a bitch" to work for.

Additionally, he was personally asked by the then Defense Secretary MELVIN LAIRD to come to work at the Defense Department as a Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense. However, LAIRD did not want a foreign service office on the State Department payroll working at the Pentagon as the National Security Council Affairs man so they worked out a deal whereby the appointee would go on leave without pay from the State Department and then switch over to the Department of Defense under the regular Civil Service GS rating. Secretary of State ROGERS concurred in this and personally approved this arrangement.

AX 161-2050

Mr. EAGLEBURGER could not recall the name of the doctor who treated him in April, 1969, and after checking his records at home advised he could not locate this doctor's name but assumed that the Washington Hospital Center records would contain the name of the doctor in the event it was necessary to contact him.

On 4/27/73, Mrs. [ ] Personal Secretary to the appointee, the Pentagon, advised that she has worked for the appointee and has known him for about the past 12 to 14 months. She described him as hardworking, dedicated and conscientious. She also stated he is a very fair person to work for, has always been the gentlemen and is very considerate. She vouched for his character, associates, reputation and loyalty and highly recommended him for a position of trust and confidence.

On 4/27/73, Mrs. [ ] Secretary to General ALEC HAIG advised she has known the appointee since about 1968. She stated she was present in the office in April, 1969, when the appointee suffered dizzy and fainting spells and stated that although she is not a qualified doctor, the appointee then was merely suffering physical fatigue from just plain overwork and dedication to his job. She described the appointee as hardworking, capable, conscientious, very fair minded, a keen sense of humor, very personable to work for and very considerate of others. She vouched for his character, associates, reputation and loyalty and highly recommended him for a position of trust and confidence.

He has known the appointee, LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER, for approximately twenty years. Mr. LAIRD has known the the parents of the appointee much longer. The appointee worked on a campaign committee for Mr. LAIRD many years ago in Portage, Wisconsin, when Mr. LAIRD was running for a public office. Mr. LAIRD was aware of the fine work that the appointee had performed in the National Security Council. However, he worked there around eighteen hours a day and worked himself to a point of complete exhaustion; consequently, on a physician's instructions he had to be relieved of his employment to protect his health. He last worked for NATO in Brussels, Belgium, where he was able to work in a more relaxing manner and did not have to over tax himself readily. Mr. LAIRD arranged with Secretary ROGERS of the Foreign Service State Department to have the appointee leave the Foreign Service of the State Department and come to work for Mr. LAIRD in the Department of Defense. Mr. LAIRD utilized him and as the Deputy Assistant Secretary of International Security in the Department of Defense. The appointee is a fine person who is completely dedicated to his work. He is extremely conscientious, but sometimes would come so completely immersed in his work that he taxes his energy beyond the point of endurance. Consequently, he has to be warranted to let up somewhat in his work. He is completely and totally loyal to the United States. He is a brilliant young man who who is articulate and a "beautiful writer". Mr. LAIRD indicated that he would rank the appointee number one among the employees of the Foreign Service in the State Department. Mr. LAIRD also indicated that he could not say enough good about the appointee. His character and reputation are above reproach. Nothing of a derogatory nature concerning the appointee's divorce has come to Mr. LAIRD's attention. There have been no indications to Mr. LAIRD that the appointee had any objectional habits. Mr. LAIRD highly recommended the appointee for a position of responsibility and trust in the U.S. Government.

The information in this summary memorandum covers the period since April, 1969. Mr. Eagleburger was born on August 1, 1930, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Miscellaneous

On July 6, 1969, a news article in "The Washington Post," a daily Washington, D. C., newspaper, set forth information that Mr. Eagleburger left his position as Administrative Assistant to Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs, on orders of his physician to rest and assume a less strenuous job.

A review of Mr. Eagleburger's official personnel file, maintained at the Office of Civilian Personnel, USDS, Washington, D. C., discloses that in May, 1969, Mr. Eagleburger advised he was suffering physical exhaustion as manifested by attacks of dizziness and fainting in his office at The White House. He was taken to The White House Dispensary for immediate first aid and then to the Washington Hospital Center for twenty-four hours' observation. His problem was subsequently diagnosed as fatigue resulting from overwork, too much coffee, and too many cigarettes. Mr. Eagleburger stated that subsequent to this incident a woman writer for "Harpers," a magazine, wrote an article in which she mentioned that Mr. Eagleburger had suffered a nervous breakdown. He stated the intent of the article was to downgrade Dr. Kissinger.

C., disclose that in July, 1969, several sources reported that Mr. Eagleburger was suffering from exhaustion, having worked long hours at the NSC. They pointed out, however, that his health did not interfere with the performance of his duties. They considered this period of exhaustion a temporary ailment, and not a permanent ailment. All sources stated that Mr. Eagleburger was emotionally stable and mentally well balanced.

[redacted] Abstract Supervisor, Medical Records, Washington Hospital Center, Washington, D. C., advised that Mr. Eagleburger was admitted to the Washington Hospital Center on May 29, 1969, for twenty-four hours' observation after complaining of dizziness. He was referred by The White House Dispensary and his attending physician was [redacted]. He stated that Mr. Eagleburger was released from the hospital on May 30, 1969, with a diagnosis of "toxic labyrinthitis, probably due to excess cigarettes, coffee, work, and tension."

C.I.A. Said to Have Asked Funds for Chile Rightists in '73

By Seymour M. Hersh
Special to the New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—The Central Intelligence Agency sought to finance an extreme right-wing opposition group in Chile six weeks before the overthrow of President Salvador Allende Gossens in September, 1973, highly reliable sources said today.

The sources said that the first word of the C.I.A.'s attempt to become involved with the extremist group became known two weeks ago when a close aide to Secretary of State Kissinger leaked documents in an effort to discredit a former high Nixon Administration intelligence official who was known to be privately critical of Mr. Kissinger's role in Chile.

The documents, although intended to show that there was a conspiracy inside the Administration over the clandestine C.I.A. operations in Chile, have instead raised new questions about the extent of the covert United States involvement in the overthrow of Dr. Allende.

The documents said that Lawrence S. Eagleburger, Mr. Kissinger's executive assistant, headed the committees of process for clandestine C.I.A. operations in Chile. During a briefing for the CBS television newsmen Daniel Schorr, the documents had been prepared for meetings in 1970 and 1973 of the 40 Committee, the high-level intelligence body that reviews covert activities for the United States Government.

A Reactionary Group

The 1973 document, sources said, showed that as late as July 5, 1973, the C.I.A. recommended to the 40 Committee that $200,000 be provided exclusively to the National Party in Chile, a conservative group that had urged Chileans to reject—with violence if necessary—the Allende administration as "illegitimate" and "unconstitutional."

The National Party was considered to represent the view of the property class in Chile and, in the year before the overthrow of Dr. Allende, was known to have close ties to Patrick Buchanan, a reactionary group that openly boasted of its involvement in military efforts to overthrow the Allende Government.

Since the first published disclosures last month of the C.I.A. operations in Chile, knowledgeable Ford Administration officials have maintained that the main goal was to enable moderate political factors to survive the Allende period.

Whether the 40 Committee specifically approved the proposed funds for the National Party could not be learned, but William F. Colby, the C.I.A. director, told a House intelligence subcommittee earlier this year that $1-million was authorized in August, 1973, for use in Chile. Mr. Colby further testified, however, that less than $50,000 was actually spent because of the coup d'état in Chile the next month.

Mr. Eagleburger's intention in briefing Mr. Schorr, the sources said, was to rebut off-the-record statements made to the newsmen earlier by Ray S. Clune, the former director of the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence. Mr. Clune participated in 40 Committee deliberations on Chile from 1970 to 1973 and has recently criticized Mr. Kissinger's role at those meetings.

The disclosures of the documents took place less than a week after Mr. Kissinger publicly called such leaks "a disgrace to the Foreign Service" and "dangerous to national security."

One of the 1970 documents shown to Mr. Schorr included the name of a Chilean Government public use of the materials reportedly supplied by Mr. Eagleburger and in a telephone interview refused to discuss the issue, adding: "I don't know what you are talking about."

The first word of Mr. Eagleburger's action came indirectly from State Department officials who learned that a search had been made of the department's special vault containing its 40 Committee documents.

In a telephone interview yesterday, Mr. Eagleburger acknowledged that Mr. Kissinger had authorized the search at both of the National Security Council minutes in the White House and of the 40 Committee documents stored in the State Department in an effort "to see whether we could come up with something that would indicate whether there [Mr. Clune's] statements were correct."

As Mr. Eagleburger described the file searches began shortly after Mr. Kissinger learned that Mr. Clune, who retired last opposition newspapers and politicians.

Told of Mr. Eagleburger's efforts to contradict his views, Mr. Clune said that he was "unwilling to comment on the staff papers prepared for 40 Committee meetings."

"No one should discuss internal papers of such importance," he added.

Mr. Clune, who served with the C.I.A. for more than 20 years before becoming the head of State Department intelligence, is now a senior director of the Georgetown University School of Strategic Studies.

The Three Documents

The three documents described by Mr. Eagleburger dealt with the State Department's comments on C.I.A. proposals to be discussed at 40 committee meetings.

According to reliable sources, Mr. Clune, as director of intelligence, could make additional recommendations or comments on the documents, which were to be forwarded to the Undersecretary for Political Affairs, the official who traditionally represented State on the 40 Committee.

The first document, the sources said, was dated Aug. 31, 1970, and dealt with the C.I.A. recommendations to ease the pending Chilean presidential elections resulted in a runoff involving Dr. Allende.

Three proposals, or options, for investing money in amounts ranging from $350,000 to $900,000 were reported discussed with the State Department urging limited funds or no funds at all for covert activities. Mr. Clune, in a handwritten comment, called for major financial support for anti-Allende forces if it could "make a difference" between victory or defeat for Dr. Allende, the source said.

A second document, dated Sept. 4, 1970, the day Dr. Allende barely won the Chilean election, reportedly discussed a C.I.A. proposal for bribing members of the Chilean Congress, which, under that country's Constitution, would have to ratify the election and thus ultimately choose the President.

Wynnebury Corr, then the State Department's coordinator for 40 Committee staff recommendations, urged that no program involving what he termed "subversion" be initiated, according to the sources.

Mr. Clune, in another handwritten comment, reportedly depicted Mr. Corr as being "going up" on the emotional overtones of the word subversion. "In the world of realpolitik," Mr. Clune is said to have written such activities do take place.

Spending Authorized

The 40 Committee eventually recommended that $550,000 be spent in an attempt to bribe the Congress, which voted nonetheless in October to ratify Dr. Allende as President.

The third document, dated July 25, 1973, was said to have been forwarded to William J. Porter, then the Under Secretary for Political Affairs, by Jack B. Rubick, then the Assistant Secretary for State for Inter-American Affairs. The document reportedly discussed the financing of the anti-Allende political parties, including a specific recommendation that $350,000 be given to the Christian Democrats and another suggestion that $200,000 be given to the National party.

Partido Nacional party, a conservative group ment official who served as a conduit for C.I.A. views and also reportedly helped funnel funds to anti-Allende forces. Such information traditionally has been among the most closely guarded government secrets.

A number of persons familiar with State Department operations expressed doubt that Mr. Eagleburger would have shown Mr. Schorr such documents without the direct or indirect concurrence of the Secretary of State.

Mr. Eagleburger has denied showing Mr. Schorr any documents and insisted that he had personally made the decision to omit Mr. Schorr. "I am not showing any documents, cables, letters or memoranda to anybody," he said. "I did not describe any of the particular events that were being argued about. All I provided was a general broad statement dealing with Mr. Clune's role."

"Henry's role was only to act as to do a check of the files," Mr. Eagleburger said. "It was me, on my own, who told some people what the files said."

Mr. Schorr has made no year, "had made some statements about his expertise, to a number of activities in Chile and Henry and Nixon had overruled him and the State Department."

"It is true," Mr. Eagleburger added, "that I have told some people who asked about it that the documents made available demonstrated the opposite of what Clune said."

"I guess that I have to say that a check of the files showed nothing to support the contention that Mr. Clune registered any opposition to proposals that had gone to the 40 Committee on Chile," he added. "In fact, those files demonstrated the opposite."

In an interview with The New York Times published Thursday, Mr. Clune said that the impetus for the Chile programs had come from either Mr. Kissinger or President Nixon, or both. Mr. Clune also confirmed that the C.I.A.'s activities in Chile included the financial support of strikes by shopkeepers and truckers.

President Ford and Mr. Kissinger have said that the C.I.A. funding in Chile was limited to

The sources said that Lawrence S. The documents had been prepared for meetings in 1970 and 1973 of the 40 Committee, the high-level intelligence board that reviews covert activities for the United States Government.

Mr. Cline participated in 40 Committee deliberations on Chile from 1970 to 1973 and has recently criticized Mr. Kissinger's role at those meetings.

The disclosure of the documents took place less than a week after Mr. Kissinger, through his spokesman, had publicly called such leaks "a disgrace to the Foreign Service" and dangerous to national security.

One of the 1970 documents shown to Mr. Schorr included the name of a Chilean Govern-

White House Office (WFO)

National Security Council (NSC)

The following investigation was conducted by SA [redacted] on March 3, and 4, 1975:

A search of the records of the Personnel Office, White House, revealed no information concerning LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER.

A search of the White House Records Office revealed no information concerning the appointee.

A review of the records of the Administrative Office, NSC, revealed the following information not reported during the previous investigation:

May 21, 1973 The appointee reported for duty with the NSC on detail from the Department of Defense as a member of the NSC Staff. He left the NSC during September, 1973, when KISSINGER became Secretary of State.

The file contains no additional pertinent information.

A review of the appointee's security records at the Security Office, NSC, revealed that he was granted a top secret security clearance by NSC on May 16, 1973 based upon the completion of a full field Federal Bureau of Investigation background investigation. xx 09HP

Mr. [redacted] Area Director-East Asia and Pacific, NSC, advised that he has known LARRY EAGLEBURGER on a professional basis since 1957 when they both took some State Department schooling here in Washington, D.C. He has maintained contact with the appointee on and off since then.

[redacted] noted that EAGLEBURGER has the complete confidence of Secretary KISSINGER and he noted that the appointee obviously works well under pressure. He is a highly stable, reliable individual and [redacted] has never heard anything which would lead him to question the appointee's loyalty to this country. Based upon the above, he would recommend him for a position of confidence and trust with the government.

Mrs. [ ] Staff Secretary, NSC, advised that she has known the appointee both on a professional and a social basis since 1964. She considers him to be a very good friend. She advised that the appointee is an extremely capable individual and that she has complete confidence in his professional ability. She has observed him socially many times and has never observed any unfavorable behavior on his part. He is highly regarded by all of his co-workers and [ ] knows of nothing which would lead her to question the appointee's loyalty to this government. She would recommend him for a position of confidence and trust. b6 b7C

Mr. [ ] Staff Member, NSC, advised he worked with the appointee here at NSC during 1973. He described him as a hard working, competent individual who is conscientious to an extreme. He is able to work quite well in close proximity to Secretary KISSINGER, not at all an easy task. He is completely loyal, reliable and stable and does not have any bad habits that [ ] has ever observed. Based upon his association, he would have no hesitation in recommending the appointee for a position of confidence and trust with the government.

Mr. [ ] Area Director-Europe, NSC, advised that he has known the appointee on a professional basis since 1971. He described EAGLEBURGER as "an outstanding individual". He is extremely dedicated to this country's welfare and is working seven day weeks and twelve-fourteen hour days to that end. He has the highest regard for the appointee and he noted that the appointee is highly respected by all of his co-workers. [ ] has never heard anything which would lead him to question the appointee's loyalty to this government and would recommend him for a position of confidence and trust.

Mr. [ ] Area Director-Peoples Republic of China, NSC, advised that he has known LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER professionally for several years. He worked with him in connection with NSC affairs and described him as a highly skilled, and capable worker. The appointee obviously reflects the wishes of Secretary KISSINGER in his handling of professional matters and obviously has the Secretary's complete confidence. [ ] knows of nothing which would lead him to question EAGLEBURGER's loyalty and would recommend him for his position of confidence and trust with the government. b6 b7C

BENJAMIN HUBERMAN, Deputy Director, Office of Program Analysis, NSC, advised he worked with the appointee on a professional basis for approximately three months at NSC. All of Mr. HUBERMAN's comments would be favorable and he has a very high degree of respect for the appointee. He always found EAGLEBURGER to be helpful and responsive with any inquiries made of him. He has never questioned the appointee's loyalty to this country and would recommend him for a position of confidence and trust with the government.

Miss [REDACTED] Secretary, NSC, advised that she has known LAWRENCE EAGLEBURGER on a professional basis for three or four years. Originally, she worked as the appointee's secretary and came to know him in that regard. She developed a very high degree of respect for him at that time and considers him to be an outstanding individual. He is a dedicated, hard working and conscientious individual and is a responsible, stable and reliable member of the staff. She would have no hesitation in recommending him for a position of confidence and trust with the government.

Referral/Direct

On March 3, 1975, MARY F. STANLEY, Chief, Presidential Appointments Staff, USDS, WDC, advised SA [redacted] that as of February 25, 1975, LAWRENCE SIDNEY EAGLEBOROUGH has been under consideration for an appointment requiring U.S. Senate confirmation.

The following interviews were conducted at USDS, WDC by SA [redacted]

On March 3, 1975, JOSEPH J. SISCO, Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs, advised he has known the appointee for at least the last ten years on both a professional and social basis. He knows the appointee's wife and considers appointee and his family to be of outstanding character, reputation and associates. Their loyalty to the United States has never been in question. Appointee is a hard working, dedicated, able, competent, outstanding Foreign Service Officer of whom nothing of an unfavorable nature has ever come to SISCO's attention. SISCO recommended him without hesitation or reservation for continual high level service at the USDS.

On March 3, 1975, WILLIAM J. GALLOWAY, Executive Assistant to the Deputy Under Secretary of State for Management, advised he has known the appointee over the past five years but does not know appointee's wife or the remainder of his family. He has had very close professional contact with appointee during the past approximately two years. He initially met appointee in London when appointee accompanied President NIXON on a trip to Europe and was familiar with him when he was assigned to HENRY, KISSINGER's Staff on the National Security Council. GALLOWAY noted that nothing of an unfavorable or derogatory nature has ever come to his attention to indicate appointee or his family are other than of outstanding character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States and he highly recommended appointee for top level service in the Department of State.

JSW
NATHANIEL DAVIS, Director General of the Foreign Service, advised he first met appointee in 1966 when both were serving on the National Security Council Staff at the White House and had close contact with him there for approximately two years. He knows appointee's wife and has had social contact with them. He has also met appointee's oldest son. Over the approximately eight year period he has known appointee, DAVIS has had nothing but the highest respect for appointee in all aspects of appointee's work and performance. Appointee's character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States are outstanding and he is of the belief the appointee's family enjoys the same status. He highly recommended appointee for advancement to a high level, sensitive and responsible position in the USDS.

On March 3, 1975, [redacted] Personal Assistant to the Deputy Secretary of State, advised she has known appointee since the 1965-66 period when she worked in the Office of Congressional Relations and appointee worked on the Secretariate Staff at USDS. Her contact with appointee has been strictly professional although she has met appointee's wife, noting that his wife had previously worked in the Bureau for European Affairs. Nothing derogatory or unfavorable has ever come to her attention concerning the background of appointee's family and she considers the entire family to be of excellent character, reputation, associates, and loyalty to the United States. She had no reservations, questions or qualifications concerning continual service by the appointee in the USDS and recommended him highly for a top spot in the Foreign Service of the United States.

[redacted] Personal Assistant to the Secretary of State, advised she has known appointee for approximately fifteen years on both a professional and social basis. She knows appointee's wife and family and everything concerning them has been favorable to her knowledge. She has not had a close personal relationship with appointee but knew appointee when he worked in the Office of Secretary of State DEAN RUSK. She has had very close professional relationship with appointee over the past two years and she considered his performance and all aspects of his work to be outstanding. He and his family enjoy an excellent reputation and their character and associates are above reproach. There has never been any question as to their loyalty to the United States and [redacted] recommended appointee for further sensitive and responsible service in the Department and for advancement in the Foreign Service.

On March 4, 1975, [redacted] Secretary to the Staff Assistant to EAGLEBURGER, advised that she has known EAGLEBURGER since mid 1973 when both were assigned at the National Security Council. Since their return to USDS [redacted] acts as Alternate Secretary for EAGLEBURGER and considers him to be an intelligent, well rounded, outstanding Foreign Service Officer who is friendly and easy to get along with. She does not know anything about his personal life nor does she know appointee's wife or children. However, nothing has ever come to her attention of an unfavorable nature concerning the background of any member of the family and she considers appointee and his family to be of excellent character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States. She could think of no reason why she would not recommend him for advancement in the USDS and in fact, recommend him highly for a top level post in the Department.

On March 4, 1975, [redacted] Assistant Secretary, Bureau of African Affairs, advised he has known appointee for approximately fifteen years but has had close professional contact with him only during the last year. He stated he has never had any doubts about appointee's character, reputation, associates or loyalty to the United States nor as to his dedication and devotion to the Foreign Service, his ability, competence, intelligence or energy. However, he viewed appointee as somewhat less than good in his evaluation of people and personnel since he appears to lack the qualities of compassion and breadth of judgment necessary when dealing with people. He stated many of the administrative and personnel decisions of the Secretary of State have been made on a recommendation of appointee and some of these have been poor decisions. He believed appointee should not be relied upon so heavily by the Secretary of State for staff and personnel assignments and decisions. He did state appointee is under tremendous pressure in his current position as Executive Assistant to the Secretary of State because he works so closely with the secretary and those pressures have produced what [ ] termed arbitrary decisions in both substantive and administrative areas. In [ ] opinion the critical factors are Africa and Latin American where appointee and the Secretary have less of an understanding concerning the sensibilities of the peoples and nations of those continents and how to go about establishing rapport with those peoples. [ ] stated appointee as an administrator of policy is fine but in the cases of Africa and Latin America he could not be termed a good persuader, seller, or explainer of American Foreign Policy to the sensitive governments and peoples of those areas. [ ] feels that to a degree the shortcomings have carried over in some of the personnel and staff decisions suggested to the Secretary by the appointee and flatly stated he would not want to have appointee in complete charge of staffing and management of State Department Foreign Service Officers. b6 b7C

He recommended him highly for further U.S. Government employment and stated appointee would make an excellent Ambassador to a European country especially to one such as Germany where sensibilities are not severe and the blunt carrying out of its policy is understood. He soon pointed he in no way meant to deride or to have anyone consider his comments derogatory towards appointee or the Secretary but merely wished to point out his opinions in the event appointee would be considered for a position of such importance and concern to the Foreign Service Officer Staff as to be in supreme command of the staffing and management of personnel.

On March 3, 4, and 5, 1975, SA [ ] was in contact with [ ] Personal Assistant to Secretary of State HENRY A. KISSINGER with regard to the investigation of appointee. Attempts were made by [ ] on those days to arrange an interview by SA [ ] since [ ] stated his secretary would undoubtedly desire to speak to SA [ ] with regard to EAGLEBURGER since the secretary holds EAGLEBURGER in such high regard. However, [ ] advised on each of those days she was unable to arrange an appointment due to the preparation of the Secretary's trip to the Mid East in order to negotiate the settlement between the Arabs and Israelis. She stated in the event it was necessary, she would make arrangements to have the Secretary speak to SA [ ] upon his return, but she was unable to name a specific date.

It is noted KISSINGER comments with regard to EAGLEBURGER as late as December, 1974, were set forth previously in WFO airtel March 6, 1975, as a result of review of appointee's official foreign service personnel file.

The following interviews were conducted by SA [ ] on March 5, 1975, at U.S. Department of State (USDS), Washington, D.C. (WDC):

[ ] Deputy Assistant Secretary, Bureau of European Affairs advised he first met appointee in the early 1970's when appointee was assigned on detail from USDS to the Department of Defense and he [ ] was assigned to the Bureau of International Organization Affairs. He has known him both professionally and socially during that time but has no knowledge of appointee's wife or family. Although he does not know appointee's family he would judge from appointee's reputation and service that appointee and family are of outstanding character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States. [ ] pointed out appointee has been handling the most sensitive and urgent matters at USDS since his assignment as Executive Assistant to HENRY KISSINGER in September, 1973. In the opinion of [ ] appointee has always used good judgment and is an outstanding administrator and manager. He had absolutely no reservations or qualifications with regard to recommending appointee for advancement to a higher and more responsible post within USDS.

[redacted] Deputy Assistant Secretary, Bureau of European Affairs, advised he first met appointee in 1965 when appointee was assigned to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), in Europe and that he has been professionally associated with him on a close basis for two and one half to three years. He has no knowledge of appointee socially and does not know appointee's wife or family. Nothing has ever come to [redacted] attention to indicate appointee or his family are other than of excellent character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States and he believed them all to be loyal American citizens. He described appointee as an extremely hard working, tough minded individual, who is totally devoted to the State Department, the United States of America and Secretary of State HENRY KISSINGER. He is remarkably intelligent regarding all issues concerning the Department of State and is an excellent manager who time and time again has used good judgment and has made excellent decisions due to good instincts even though he is in a very difficult position and under pressure. In [redacted] opinion appointee has always acted in the best interest of the USDS and the U.S. Government. [redacted] recommended him for a top level position in the U.S. Government of additional sensitivity and responsibility. b6 b7C

WINSTON LORD, Director, Policy Planning Staff, advised he first met appointee in 1969 while both were associated with the National Security Council (NSC) Staff for a period of six to nine months in the Executive Office Building of the White House, although he did not know him well then. Appointee later went to Europe on an assignment with NATO and LORD continued on the NSC Staff at the White House. Since appointee's return to the United States, in 1971, he has had close professional and social contact with him, especially since September, 1973, when both have worked together on a daily basis at USDS. The appointee condigns loyalty to the foreign service as a whole with loyalty to Secretary KISSINGER but noted he is not a yes man since KISSINGER is unable to accept people of this type. He reflects both sides well as good managerial instincts and does an excellent job of liaison with the White House. He has intelligence and "guts" but would not make a move on his own unless he is absolutely sure the Secretary wanted him to act in that manner and that he was within the framework of the Secretary's Office. Since he has worked with the Secretary a number of years at both NSC and USDS he has developed the ability to forecast and anticipate the Secretary's desires and thinking on some occasions. He is able to make decisions and judgments for the Secretary, thereby relieving the Secretary of many administrative and managerial problems which are confined to the Secretary's Office. Appointee drives, pushes and is extremely industrious and is well qualified for any top level administrative or managerial position in USDS or elsewhere in the U.S. Government. His character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States to the knowledge of LORD are outstanding and he believes appointee's family enjoys the same status. He highly recommended appointee for continual high level service in the U.S. Government.

SAMUEL W. LEWIS, Deputy Director, Policy Planning Staff, advised he had met appointee once prior to his most recent assignment in USDS when they were associated on the NSC Staff in 1969. He has not had close association with appointee until March, 1974 at USDS. LEWIS described appointee as an extraordinarily able, responsive individual who has a tremendously "tough" job as Executive Assistant to the Secretary of State. He has moderate dealings with appointee in that position in relation to the Policy Planning Staff.

LEWIS stated the Secretary relies heavily upon the intelligence, knowledge and judgment of appointee with regard to daily decisions in the Secretary's Office and recently he has been made Acting Deputy Under Secretary of State for Management. LEWIS is of the opinion appointee would fill that job enablely and is in favor of him getting same as a permanent position. LEWIS stated he knows of no decisions or judgments appointee has made as Executive Assistant to the Secretary of State and it would be to the deployment of USDS or the United States of America. Appointee has retained his career foreign service credentials quite well considering he is operating in a semi-political role in his current permanent position as Executive Assistant to the Secretary. In view of the above, he is faired well in all categories according to LEWIS and LEWIS recommended him highly for any top level foreign service position at USDS or as an executive elsewhere in the U.S. Government.

LEWIS stated nothing has ever come to his attention of a derogatory or unfavorable nature to indicate appointee or any members of his family are other than of excellent character, reputation, associates and loyalty to the United States and he believes all members to be loyal American citizens.

GEORGE S. VEST, Director, Bureau of Political-Military Affairs, advised he has known and worked with appointee on several occasions since appointee came into the Department in 1957 noting the most recent assignment was as political counselor to VEST while VEST was United States Minister to NATO. VEST knows appointee's wife and the VESTs visit socially with the EAGLEBURGERS. VEST considers this a very close relationship. He stated they are of outstanding character, reputation and associates and their loyalty to the United States is above reproach. Appointee is a sound foreign service officer who has the best interests of the foreign service and the United States at heart while being extremely loyal to the Secretary of State. He is quite influential with the Secretary since he has worked with him for a number of years both at NSC and at USDS and could be called an extension of the Secretary in that he is relied upon by the Secretary to make many decisions and judgments concerning the Secretary's Office. VEST stated he knows of no assignment, decision or judgment that appointee has ever made that he would consider against the foreign service or the U.S. Government and in all respects believes his administrative and managerial abilities to be extraordinary in government circles. VEST noted appointee is currently Acting Deputy Under Secretary of State for Management and expressed the opinion appointee would be an excellent choice for that spot on a permanent basis.

[redacted] Deputy Executive Secretary, Executive Secretariat, Office of the Secretary of State, advised he knew appointee slightly from the 1960's during appointee's assignment at NATO until September, 1973 when appointee was assigned as Executive Assistant to Secretary of State KISSINGER. Since that time he has worked closely with appointee on a professional basis and has had occasional social contact with him inasmuch as they have mutual friends. Having considered appointee's

background according to [ ] is favorable and the only criticism he has of him is that appointee works too hard. He pointed out EAGLEBURGER appears absolutely indispensable to the Secretary of State since he has worked for an extended period of time and is able to foresee the Secretary's desires and concerns with uncanny inaccuracy. [ ] stated appointee is incredibly well liked despite some of the difficult decisions, judgments and things he has to do in his position and he has excellent relations with everyone to the knowledge of [ ]. He is extremely loyal to the Secretary but he is also loyal and well liked by the Foreign Service Staff. His loyalty to the Secretary does not inhibit his orientation towards the national good, the Department or the Foreign Service. Most of the top level officials at USDS have considered he has done a good job and [ ] stated he is not aware of any decisions appointee has made that could be considered detrimental to the United States. Appointee and his family are loyal Americans without question and of excellent character, reputation and associates. He recommended appointee without hesitation, qualification and reservation for continual high level U.S. Government service.

[ ], Special Assistant to the Secretary of State and Executive Secretary of the Department, Executive Secretariat, Office of the Secretary of State, reiterated his comments of April 25, 1973 concerning appointee when he [ ] was then Deputy Assistant Secretary for European Affairs, and stated he still holds the appointee in the same high regard. He also recommended appointee for any top level job in the Foreign Service of the United States or in any other agency or department of U.S. Government.

[ ] Deputy Executive Secretary, Executive Secretariat, Office of the Secretary of State, advised he has known appointee by reputation for approximately ten years but has worked closely and personally with him for the past fifteen months. He described him as a good manager and administrator and a person whose judgment and decision making talents have been indispensable to the Secretary of State. He works extremely hard, is competent and capable of handling the most complex and sensitive matters involving the U.S. Government in any field. [ ] has never had reason to question appointee or his family's character, reputation or associates and he considers them all to be very loyal American citizens.

The following interviews were conducted by SA [redacted] on March 7, 1975, at the U.S. Department of State (USDS), Washington, D.C. (WDC), concerning LAWRENCE SIDNEY EAGLEBURGER: b6 b7c

ROBERT S. INGERSOLL, Deputy Secretary of State, advised he has known appointee since November, 1973, when he, INGERSOLL, returned to the United States after serving as U.S. Ambassador to Japan. He has had daily professional contact with appointee since that time and has had several social visits with appointee and his wife on a home and home basis. INGERSOLL described appointee as an extremely dedicated, loyal, able, and competent individual who has been involved in many top level administrative and managerial decisions while serving as Executive Assistant to the Secretary of State. He acts as a "go between" as regards Secretary of State and the Department. He frequently makes decisions for the Secretary since he knows the Secretary's desires and feelings on a great number of matters. He has a very well balanced view concerning personal matters and is well regarded in the foreign service as a person who does not alienate and has established good relationships with the other foreign service officers, the press, Congress and the White House. He has handled all these categories in a beautiful manner and INGERSOLL has never heard any adverse comments concerning appointee. He considers the appointee, his wife and family to be of outstanding character, reputation and loyalty to the United States and recommended him without reservation or advancement to a more sensitive and responsible post in USDS.

Ambassador EDWARD W. MULCAHY, Deputy Assistant Secretary, Bureau of African Affairs, advised he has known appointee for approximately four months and prior to that time appointee was just a name to him since he, MULCAHY, was assigned outside the United States. MULCAHY has found appointee to be extremely efficient during the few times he has dealt with appointee directly noting appointee "really gets things done." Appointee has a fine, clear thinking mind, has a assessment of the priorities of his job and is an excellent administrator and manager. The efficiency of the Secretary of State's office is largely due to appointee since there are few in government who relate as well with the Secretary as appointee. He is able to think and act for the Secretary on many instances since he is able to forecast the Secretary's thinking and desires. He seems to be very well balanced between the Foreign Service, State Department, the U.S. Government, and the Secretary of State and those of low judgments or decisions of an administrative or managerial nature could be termed detrimental to any of the aforementioned. He stated appointee has standardized many operations in the Secretary's Office which allows for various Bureaus in the Department to be heard and focused in/or by the Secretary when necessary. WELCH has had a limited social relationship with appointee through State related activities only but based on his knowledge of appointee and his reputation he would consider appointee and family to be of outstanding character, reputation, associates or loyalty to the United States. He recommended appointee highly without qualification for advancement in USDS or elsewhere in a high level post of the U.S. Government.

VINCENT BAKER, Director, Office of Disarmament and Arms Control, Bureau of Politico-Military Affairs, advised he has known appointee since the 1963-64 time period when appointee was assigned in the Secretariat perhaps slight and periodic contact with him. He came to know appointee closely when appointee was assigned as Politico-Military Counselor at North Atlantic Treaty Organization ("NATO") in 1969 to 1971. He had several times daily contact with appointee on various political and military matters and at stock meetings. He had regular social contact with him during that time on a home and home basis and knows appointee's wife well since she is a former secretary in the Bureau of European Affairs at USDS.

Appointee has a marvelous sense of priorities, has a great grasp of things and is objective with issues and personnel matters. He is fast moving, loyal, discrete, talented and has a sense of political judgment beyond academic and analytical issues. He has a rare combination of intellectual strength, political contacts and sensitivities and prodigious energy for work. BAKER worked closely with appointee on the Mutual and Balanced Force Reduction ("MBFR"), when appointee was assigned to the Defense Department. BAKER stated appointee is currently Acting Deputy Under Secretary of State for "Management" and he would recommend appointee highly for that position on a permanent basis.

or elsewhere in the Department or U.S. Government at the top most level.

[redacted] Secretariat Staff Director, advised he first met appointee during the time period 1965 to 1966 when appointee was assigned to the Secretariat Staff for a period of approximately eighteen months as a line officer who was among the most effective and responsive foreign service officers working on the line. He later saw appointee in 1968 when appointee traveled to Rome with President NIXON. He received the same excellent impression of appointee during the NIXON visit. He has had periodic contact with appointee since that time until July, 1974, where [redacted] current position brought him in to close contact with appointee at USDS.

[redacted] described appointee's current position as Executive Assistant to the Secretary of State as being unique and closely associated with the Secretary. Appointee is a person reflective of the Secretary's desires and has the ability to translate these desires into action. Appointee is a very effective manager and administrator who has a quick perceptive mind and gets things done. He is very useful to the Secretary, Foreign Service, the Department and the U.S. Government striking a good balance between them. He has the ability to make all views known to the Secretary. [redacted] stated appointee's habits and morals are impeccable and that he and his family are of outstanding character, reputation, and associates and their loyalty to the United States is above reproach. [redacted] recommended appointee without question, reservation or qualification for any high level position in USDS.

ENCLOSURE

quickly and well is infectious. His capacity for evoking the very best from his subordinates is remarkable; he is a natural leader and a man whose interest and respect for others never wanes amid the rush of events.

"I rely on Mr. Eagleburger as one of my closest associates and advisors in the State Department. I rarely make a major policy decision without first getting his advice. In offering his views, he is always frank and forthcoming and his good judgment is unfailing.

"As well, he is quick to seize the initiative on matters which he can settle without deferring to me. Mr. Eagleburger's knowledge of and interest in international affairs is both wide and deep. His grasp of international political and politico-military affairs is especially broad, incisive and, to me, invaluable. It is hard to identify a forte among so many outstanding talents. But if there is one, it is his ability to understand the essence of a given problem with speed and precision. This, along with his skill and expressing himself in writing and orally with clarity and color, makes him the ideal assistant.

"As is clear from the above, I consider Mr. Eagleburger one of the very best officers anywhere in the Foreign Service. His outstanding strengths mark him as a man destined for the very top of the service."

The file also reveals a memorandum in lieu of an officer evaluation report logged into the file on February 6, 1975, wherein Secretary Kissinger relates that Mr. Eagleburger "practically never errs in knowing when to speak for me and when to check. He works remarkably hard and with justified self-assurance. He is an extension of my effectiveness in every way. He knows how to deal with large questions and how to manage people and he invariably has a firm grasp of the essentials of any issue. He is a wholly effective senior executive. It would, I am sure, be far easier for him to go abroad as an Ambassador - a job he could do masterfully - but he has been dedicated enough to do the more difficult thing, to accept the frustrations, tensions and pressures of remaining in Washington to help me direct the Department of State.

"As for his personal qualities, I need not elaborate on his many virtues - honesty, integrity, persistence, intellectual grasp and, most important, the highest quality of judgment. I might add one extra comment. I have observed in him a very uncommon combination of respect for and decency to others, humor under stress and warmth of spirit. These qualities serve well in his demanding position. People like and trust him.

"In a succession of jobs over the past several years, Mr. Eagleburger has been performing at the level of an FSO-1 or Career Minister. He has been doing such work longer than most senior, successful Foreign Service Officers. I believe his promotion is overdue and I strongly recommend it to the Promotion Panels."

Marital Status

Mr. Eagleburger is married to the former Marlene Ann Heinemann and they reside at 1101 South 23rd Road, Arlington, Virginia, with their sons, [ ] and [ ]

He stated he viewed Mr. Eagleburger as somewhat less than good in his evaluation of people and personnel since he appears to lack the qualities of compassion and breadth of judgment necessary when dealing with people. He believed Mr. Eagleburger should not be relied upon so heavily by Secretary Kissinger for staff and personnel assignments and decisions. (Mr. [redacted] stated in his opinion Mr. Eagleburger does not have the understanding necessary concerning the sensibilities of the people of Africa and Latin America and does not know how to go about establishing rapport with the people of those areas. He personally would recommend an appointment for Mr. Eagleburger in the European Theater of Operations and, in particular, Germany where sensibilities are not severe and the blunt carrying out of policy is understood.

Mr. [redacted] pointed out that his remarks were not meant to deride or to be considered derogatory toward Mr. Eagleburger or the Secretary of State, Mr. Kissinger, but he merely wished to point out his opinion in the event Mr. Eagleburger is under consideration for a position of such importance and concern to the Foreign Service Officer Staff as to be in supreme command of the staffing and management of personnel.

Attachment D

(a) For approximately 2 1/2 years, and until recently, I was one of five US outside directors of a New York State chartered FDIC Bank which is wholly owned by a Yugoslav parent bank. This bank, LSB Bank of New York, and one of its inside directors, a Yugoslav national, has been subjected to a single criminal charge of conspiring to violate the law in respect of the filing of two allegedly false or inaccurate current transaction reports.

PH I am informed that the case is pending in the US District court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

I played no role whatever in the transaction in question, nor in any operation of the bank. I have not been approached or questioned by the authorities and do not anticipate being a witness in the case. I have been further assured by counsel to the Bank, who has inquired of the Government, that no wrongdoing whatever has been imputed to me.

(b) ITT Blackburn was the subject of a criminal investigation relating to violations of the Iranian Boycott Regulations in 1980. This led to an indictment in December 1985 and a conviction of the Corporation in August 1986. However, on appeal, the 8th Circuit reversed, set aside the jury verdict and dismissed the indictment on the ground that the grand jury had not intended to indict ITT Corporation when it named the Blackburn Division as a defendant.

(c) Federal Electric Corporation, a subsidiary of ITT, has been the subject of an extended investigation by DCAA of its time charging and manning practices on the DEW Line and BMEWS service contracts. While this investigation could have led to a criminal proceeding, ITT has been informed by the investigator that his final report will not recommend referral to the U.S. Attorney and instead will conclude that a civil resolution is appropriate.

(d) ITT Dialcom, an indirectly owned ITT subsidiary, since sold to British Telephone, was the subject of a criminal investigation in 1984-85 relating to mischarging of government telephone calls on several GSA contracts. Restitution was made by the company, and in 1985 the Department of Justice closed its investigation without seeking indictments of either the company or any individual.

As a member of the ITT Board I played no role whatever in the transactions in question, nor in the operations of ITT or its subsidiaries.

FBI checking Eagleburger's ties to bank

By Bill Gertz
 THE WASHINGTON TIMES

Senate conservatives have asked the FBI to investigate ties between Deputy Secretary of State-designate Lawrence Eagleburger and a Yugoslav bank in New York that is under federal indictment for money laundering and customs violations, according to congressional sources.

Confirmation hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had been scheduled for tomorrow, but they were postponed to allow the FBI background investigation to examine new questions, sources said.

Until last month, Mr. Eagleburger was a member of the board of directors of LBS Bank, a Yugoslav government-owned bank that was indicted Dec. 1 by a federal grand jury following an 18-month sting operation run by the U.S. Customs Service and Internal Revenue Service.

Mr. Eagleburger, a former U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia who helped secure Western loans for the country, left government service in 1984 and joined the board of Yugo America, the automobile sales corporation, in February 1985. Yugo America filed for protection under U.S. bankruptcy laws Jan. 29.

LBS Bank Chairman Vinko Mir was among five persons arrested in the case involving money that was taken from the United States, deposited in banks in Yugoslavia and then wired back to the United States, including some funds that were passed through LBS Bank, according to U.S. Customs officials involved in the case.

About $1.5 million was involved in the money-laundering operation, which used the diplomatic pouch from the Yugoslavian consulate in Chicago to transport funds to Yugoslavia.

LBS Bank and Mr. Mir are accused of filing false currency transaction reports with the IRS, according to Customs officials.

Senate sources said FBI Director

William Sessions was asked on Monday to investigate what connection Mr. Eagleburger may have had with Mr. Mir and Bharudin Bijedic, Yugoslavia's consul general in Chicago who was also indicted in the money-laundering scheme. The FBI was also asked to examine whether Mr. Eagleburger as an LBS board member at the time of the indictment, could be held legally accountable for any of the money-laundering activities of LBS Bank.

The bureau was also asked to find if the Yugoslav nationals or Vjekoslav Spanjol, a native Yugoslav who owns a janitorial service in Texas and is a defendant in the case, are agents of a Soviet bloc intelligence service. If they are intelligence agents, the group wants to know who were their American contacts.

The conservatives also want the FBI to determine if Mr. Eagleburger purchased stock in any enterprises owned by the Yugoslav government and whether he had any involvement with Soviet bloc governments.

On February 17, 1989, LAWRENCE S. EAGLEBURGER, Undersecretary for Political Affairs Designate, U.S. Department of State, Washington, D.C., telephonically recontacted SA [redacted] WMFO, FBI, regarding clarification of several issues previously discussed on February 16, 1989.

EAGLEBURGER advised that after reviewing his financial reports on the LBS Bank, New York, he could more accurately and specifically address the question concerning LBS Bank's net income for calendar year 1987 ($19,993) and the first five months of 1988 ($200,000), and the apparent "disparity".

EAGLEBURGER stated his review confirmed the dollar amount ($19,993) for calendar year 1987 as the bank's net income. However, his records revealed that $250,000 was transferred from the bank's reserve account for the purpose of "provisions for loan losses". His review of records for the first six months of 1988 revealed that the bank's net income was $117,047, with "provisions for loan losses" at $106,500. He offered as an explanation for the "disparity", by his review (not those offered by the first five months of 1988), was the difference in "loan loss provisions" in the two years, and in addition, to a more profitable second year for the bank.

The second issue which EAGLEBURGER wished to clarify, after a review of his financial report for the LBS Bank, New York, was his lack of understanding of the terms "liability account" and "due to other funds".

His review of his records revealed that "due to other funds" actually interpreted to read "owed to others" for money borrowed. For the period of September, 1987, the bank's liability account was actually $61.7 million, with monies owed to others (parent bank) at $20 million, for a total of $82.7 million. The balance of the liability account for April, 1988, from his review, was $47.5 million, with monies owed to others (parent bank) at $16 million, for a total of $63.5 million.

On February 16, 1989, LAWRENCE SIDNEY EAGLEBURGER, the Undersecretary for Political Affairs Designate, United States Department of State, Washington, D.C., was reinterviewed by Special Agent [redacted] Washington Metropolitan Field Office, FBI, Washington, D.C. EAGLEBURGER was advised that the nature of this interview dealt with questions concerning his former Ambassadorship to Yugoslavia and his subsequent relationships with that country/persons since that time. EAGLEBURGER acknowledged that he understood and advised that he was willing to cooperate in any manner in order to clarify and complete the FBI's investigation of his background investigation. Being satisfied with the identity of the interviewing agent, EAGLEBURGER provided the following information:

EAGLEBURGER advised that as Ambassador to Yugoslavia he knew [redacted] who was at that time a Foreign Trade Ministry official in Yugoslavia. He emphasized that his association with MIR was strictly on a professional basis, between the approximate times of 1978 to 1979. He believed that [redacted] official title was Assistant Secretary of Foreign Trade for the Western Hemisphere. His superior at that time was [redacted] who was the Trade Minister. All of his dealings with these two particular individuals encompassed the Foreign Trade Ministry and his role as U.S. Ambassador there. After leaving his post as Ambassador to Yugoslavia, EAGLEBURGER advised that he had no subsequent contact with either individual until 1985 or 1986, when he once again came into a professional association with [redacted] and [redacted] in their common interest with the LJUBLJANSKA BANKA in Yugoslavia, and its subsidiary bank in New York, LBS Bank. [redacted] became the Chairman of the Board of the LBS Bank in New York, and as such, was the U.S. Representative to the mother bank in Yugoslavia. The LBS Bank in New York was a 100 percent owned subsidiary bank of the mother bank in Yugoslavia and [redacted] was its President. EAGLEBURGER's role was that of a Board Member of the New York bank. Once again he emphasized that his role as a Board Member was strictly on a professional basis, with [redacted] and [redacted] as executives of the bank. He knew them and worked with them until [redacted] was indicted on money-laundering charges.

EAGLEBURGER advised that he professionally knew [ ] while he served as Ambassador to Yugoslavia. He could not recall [ ] title in Yugoslavia, but knew that [ ] was sent to the LBS Bank in New York as its President in 1985 when it first opened. EAGLEBURGER's professional relationship and working association with [ ] actually began in 1985 and subsequent to that time. He emphasized here again that his association with [ ] was strictly on a professional basis, but could not recall any specific details about their relationship while he served as Ambassador to his country.

EAGLEBURGER continued by stating that to the best of his recollection, he has never met [ ] who was identified as the Yugoslavian Counsel General in Chicago, Illinois. He qualified his answer by stating that it was possible that he may have met [ ] when he was that country's Ambassador; however, he could not ever recall having any professional dealings or otherwise with him.

EAGLEBURGER advised that he has never met [ ] who was identified to EAGLEBURGER as having been indicted along with [ ] and [ ] in a money-laundering scheme involving the LBS Bank in New York. EAGLEBURGER had no memory of having ever met [ ]

EAGLEBURGER advised that when he was the Ambassador to Yugoslavia, he met SLOBODAN MILOSEVIC, who was at that time the President of the largest bank in Yugoslavia, the Beogradska Banka, Belegarde, Yugoslavia. Although he was not 100 percent sure of his title, he did believe that it was either President or Chairman of the Board for that bank. In any manner, his association with MILOSEVIC was strictly on a professional basis. EAGLEBURGER acknowledged that he was aware of the fact that MILOSEVIC is now the Chairman of the Communist Party of Serbia. He was professionally acquainted with him in that new capacity and had dealt with him as a private citizen in 1987 or 1988 when he (EAGLEBURGER) called on him at the Serbian Communist Party Headquarters. His association on that particular occasion dealt specifically and totally with the political and economic conditions in Yugoslavia at that time. That was the only time that EAGLEBURGER could recall having met MILOSEVIC when he was that country's Communist Party Chief. EAGLEBURGER was aware of statements made by MILOSEVIC in the press that he (MILOSEVIC) was a personal friend of his (EAGLEBURGER). EAGLEBURGER stated that that was totally "bullshit"!

EAGLEBURGER continued on by advising that he was a Member of the Board of the LBS Bank of New York for approximately two and one-half years. He advised that he was invited to be a Board Member by [ ] by letter, on January 30, 1985. He believed that that membership on the Board became effective on March 4, 1985. He resigned from the Board on January 9, 1989, when his current position at the Department of State was announced by the White House. His duties and functions as a Board Member were to attend board meetings and receive reports of the workings of the bank, to include reports from outside inspectors (FDIC, New York State Banking Commission and External Auditors). EAGLEBURGER cited numerous occasions in which audits were done of the bank while he was a Member of the Board, including that of external auditors on December 31, 1986, December 31, 1987 and December 31, 1988, all resulting in "unqualified opinions", to mean, according to EAGLEBURGER, that no problems existed. Another audit was done by the New York State Banking Commission on May 31, 1987, May 31, 1988 and December, 1988, after the arrest of [ ] and others, which resulted in "no deficiencies noted". Again, EAGLEBURGER cited bank audits by FDIC on May 31, 1987, May 31, 1988, August 1, 1988, and in December, 1988, after the indictments mentioned earlier, all resulting in "no deficiencies noted/issued".

EAGLEBURGER advised that he was not knowledgeable that there was a Ljubljanska Banka, Chicago, Illinois. He was aware of the fact that the latter bank had a representative office in New York in which [ ] headed there. He named [ ] predecessor as [ ] who, like [ ], was that bank's representative in New York; however, EAGLEBURGER advised that he had no association with [ ], although he knew of him.

EAGLEBURGER continued by stating that Yugo-America was a client of Kissinger Associates, of which he (EAGLEBURGER) was President in 1985. In the client contract, EAGLEBURGER advised that Kissinger Associates was called upon to have a member of its organization on the Board of Yugo-America. EAGLEBURGER advised that that representative of Kissinger Associates was himself. He did not report to the Board until 1986 and held that position until December 1, 1988. He emphasized that he was on the Board, but not its President, as some have reported. His relationship with Yugo-America was by virtue of his client arrangement with Kissinger Associates. Kissinger Associates' first contract with Yugo-America, which called for a representative from its firm to be on the Board, is dated February 7, 1985. EAGLEBURGER was elected to the Board on November 7, 1985 and the Board agreed to accept him on November 27, 1985. He believed that the first Board Meeting that he attended was in April, 1986, and as stated above, he resigned on December 1, 1988. He advised that his role as a Board Member included advising Yugo-America to the political and economic conditions in that country, specifically how to deal with the Yugo Auto Manufacturers and how to manage Yugoslavians. At no time did he give advice on the automobile itself, its marketing or financial matters.

EAGLEBURGER advised that Global Motors was previously known as Yugo-America. He was unsure of the exact time change and change in names; however, cited that the reason, in part, for the name change was the attempt on the part of Yugo-America to import a Malaysian made automobile. Although the name change took place during the time of his tenure, he remained on the Board as one of its Directors.

EAGLEBURGER advised that CRVENA ZASTAVA; aka Red Flag, Red Star, is the Yugoslavian manufacturer of the Yugo automobile, a car of Fiat design. EAGLEBURGER was obviously aware of the latter and occasionally met with the officials of that company, although he never personally went to its factory.

EAGLEBURGER advised that as Ambassador to Yugoslavia, he had from occasional to frequent contact with officers of the military, also known as JNA (Yugoslav National Army). Serving as Ambassador, and the official representative of the U.S. Government, he on occasions, made the proper introductions of U.S. military officials to Yugoslavian military officials in the course of his official duties to that country.

EAGLEBURGER advised that he had served as the President of Kissinger Associates, Inc., New York, and described it as a consulting firm in which he held the position of President from September, 1984 until January 6, 1989, when his nomination for his current position was announced. His role as President entailed mostly working with Dr. HENRY KISSINGER on the briefings of clients and the day-to-day business of running a consulting firm. However, EAGLEBURGER advised that he in no way dealt with the bookkeeping or finances of the firm. Because of his background and experience, he more specifically dealt with the international atmosphere as it pertained to particular clients they were dealing with at the time. EAGLEBURGER went on to emphasize that neither Kissinger Associates or Dr. KISSINGER himself ever represented foreign governments or its activities which might fall in the scope of the Foreign Agents Registration Act. They were very careful to avoid, and at no time did they ever lobby any branch of the U.S. Government, and rarely approached a foreign government on behalf of a client. He clarified that statement by stating that on the occasions that they did approach a foreign government on behalf of the client, that client was at no time a representative of the U.S. Government.

EAGLEBURGER advised that DaeWoo Corporation was a Korean client of Kissinger Associates, Inc. Their working relationship with DaeWoo Corporation involved almost always the analysis of international events for the Chairman of that corporation, known as Mr. [REDACTED]. EAGLEBURGER could provide no additional pertinent identifying data on [REDACTED]

EAGLEBURGER continued by stating that Energoprojekt, Belgrade, Yugoslavia, is a large construction firm in Yugoslavia and was for a period of time, approximately two years, a client of Kissinger Associates, Inc. Their relationship with this firm, which began in November of 1985, was for the purpose of establishing new contacts for this construction firm for potential construction projects. EAGLEBURGER explained this further by stating that during Kissinger Associates' travels, if any member of Kissinger Associates came across potential construction projects which might be of interest to the Yugoslavian firm, they (the firm) were notified so that they might have the opportunity to bid on a particular project. EAGLEBURGER advised that this contract was totally unsuccessful and resulted in no new business for that Yugoslavian firm. Kissinger Associates were paid $50,000 for the one-year contract, but since they were unable to find any new business for the firm, they renewed the contract for a second year in December of 1986, for the same purpose, at no fee. EAGLEBURGER advised that they were, during the second year, as equally unsuccessful as they were with the first year. The contract later expired and was not renewed.

EAGLEBURGER advised that none of the persons which had been previously discussed in latter paragraphs, with the exception of those already mentioned, were related to the remaining organizations.

EAGLEBURGER went on to advise that although he was not specifically aware of the dollar amounts concerning the net income of the LBS Bank for 1987 ($19,993), and the first five months of 1988 ($200,000), he was not surprised by the figures. He further explained this by stating that the projections for the first few years of the bank would be that it would lose money; however, that was not unusual for a new bank. EAGLEBURGER did advise that he was knowledgeable of the fact that the bank did well in its second year, although he was not knowledgeable to the extent of the dollar amount of its profit. EAGLEBURGER went on to state that the bank management had a list of clients and transactions to account for all of its business and profits. As stated earlier, numerous examinations were conducted by Federal and State officials, all of which cleared the bank of any wrongdoing. EAGLEBURGER stated that he believed that the word "disparity" was the wrong word to use in comparing the two different dollar figures and felt more comfortable with the word "differences".

EAGLEBURGER was then questioned with regard to a September, 1987, LBS Liability Account, due to other funds, which had a final balance of $74.3 million, and why in April, 1988, the same liability account had a balance of only $77,600. EAGLEBURGER responded by asking interviewing agent for a clarification of what "liability account and due to other funds" meant in this context. Interviewing agent advised EAGLEBURGER that he could provide no further explanation of this wording and left it to his discretion to answer to the best of his knowledge. EAGLEBURGER responded by stating that without further explanation of the meaning of these terms, he at this time, neither understood or could respond to this question.

In regards to Global Motors, EAGLEBURGER advised that Global Motors was an American corporation, with a vast majority of ownership being that of American. There was a small percentage, perhaps as little as one percent, that was Norweigan. To the best of his knowledge, there was no Yugoslavian ownership of Global Motors. He advised that Global Motors, also previously known as Yugo-America, was a Delaware corporation. He advised that it has since gone into Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

EAGLEBURGER continued to advise that Global Motors has gone bankrupt, having filed Chapter 11, but to the best of his recollection was owned in part by

b7c

Continuation of FD-302 of LAWRENCE SIDNEY EAGLEBURGER, On 2/16/89, Page 7

[redacted] and two brothers with the last name [redacted] EAGLEBURGER believed that one of the brothers was named [redacted] but could not recall the first name of the second brother. The company was sold in April, 1988 to an investment banking firm, Mabon Nugent. EAGLEBURGER advised that he had originally purchased one thousand shares of stock in Yugo-America, stating that at the time he purchased them they were not worth very much, and since they have gone Chapter 11, they are totally worthless.

EAGLEBURGER was questioned with regard to whether or not CRVENA ZASTAVA, also known as Red Flag and Red Star, were ever owners of Global Motors or Yugo-America. EAGLEBURGER responded that to his knowledge, they were never owners of either firm. He did qualify his response by stating that he is not knowledgeable as to what has happened to this firm since it went Chapter 11. He has heard that the government of Yugoslavia has attempted to bail the company out, but could not comment further on that.

EAGLEBURGER stated that to the best of his knowledge and recollection there has been no special Yugoslavian banks set up in the U.S. to handle Yugo automobile funds. EAGLEBURGER commented that his only knowledge of American bank involvement with this car industry was that when these vehicles were shipped to the U.S., Manufacturers Hanover Trust Bank, Massachusetts, would issue letters of credit to pay for these vehicles.

EAGLEBURGER further responded that to his knowledge, Global Motors/Yugo-America has never been controlled by the JNA (Yugoslav National Army).

EAGLEBURGER continued to advise that he has never owned any real estate in Yugoslavia or participated in the acquisition of any stock issued by a Yugoslavian corporation or a company controlled by the government apparatus of Yugoslavia.

As President of Kissinger Associates, Inc., EAGLEBURGER advised that he never participated in the acquisition or maintenance of client relationships with Soviet bloc countries. For the information of the interviewing agent, EAGLEBURGER advised that Yugoslavia is not a Soviet bloc country. On one particular occasion, an American company did approach Kissinger Associates to represent them to a Soviet bloc country; however, Kissinger Associates turned them down.

EAGLEBURGER advised that with regard to any questions concerning Kissinger Associates representations of foreign entities, he felt that he would be more comfortable with his lawyers present only in the sense that they, (attorneys) would be much more qualified to answer questions in the area of "foreign entities". However, EAGLEBURGER did advise that Dr. KISSINGER and Kissinger Associates, Inc., "bent over backwards" to avoid any violation of the law as it dealt with the Foreign Agents Registration Act. EAGLEBURGER advised that their firm did represent foreign clients; however, all concerned with Kissinger Associates were very meticulous in assuring that they fell within the boundaries of not becoming foreign agents for those clients. To the best of their knowledge they never did and in turn never violated the law.

EAGLEBURGER was then questioned with regard to his Ambassadorship to Yugoslavia and whether or not during that time he encouraged, facilitated, or secured loans from U.S. banks for Yugoslavian banks. EAGLEBURGER advised that as Ambassador to that country, he, on a number of occasions, made appointments and introductions on behalf of visiting representative U.S. banks, to Yugoslavian banking officials. He advised that he did what any Ambassador would have done and that his advice to representative U.S. banks was to give them a briefing on that country's economic condition. He did not "beat the bushes" for loans for that country from U.S. banks. In his role as Ambassador to that country, he, in effect, did encourage U.S. business in that country, and on occasion that did include U.S. banking business.

EAGLEBURGER advised that he was not knowledgeable of any money, in the form of loans, which would have directly or indirectly benefited CRVENA ZASTAVA, or of any money which may have gone to the industry, company or state entity that produced the Yugo automobile.

EAGLEBURGER was then questioned with regard to whether or not any of his former activity with the U.S. Government in encouraging, facilitating or securing any loans by American banks, contributed in any manner to his appointment as a Director of the LBS Bank. EAGLEBURGER responded emphatically in the negative and advised even further that as a Member of the LBS Bank Board, he was paid, by law, $500 a Board Meeting once a month. That was the sum total of money that he received as a Member of the Board.

In conclusion, EAGLEBURGER advised that his only recollection of a security violation while employed with the Department of State as the Ambassador to Yugoslavia, involved the discovery of classified material which he had left inadvertently on his desk in the U.S. Embassy in Yugoslavia. He further advised that any further violations would have to be secured from his security file with the State Department.

EAGLEBURGER concluded his remarks by stating his willingness to cooperate fully with the FBI and its ongoing investigation concerning his current nomination.
